Shearer, Raft to Marry?

George Raft Norma Shearer

THE last-minute decision of George Raft, motion picture actor, to sail on the same liner on which Norma Shearer, movie star, is sailing to Europe, has given rise to speculation in Hollywood circles as to a possible romance between the two. When Miss Shearer boarded the boat at New York, Raft hastily cancelled his plans for a trip to Hot Springs, Ark., for a rest.

With his pocket knife he performed the operation on himself. He then made a tourniquet from his clothing and William Capps, 19, Somerset, Ky., who amputated his own foot with a pocket knife after he had fallen beneath a freight train.

"We're going ahead and we're going to pursue our investigation as vigorously as we can," O. John Rogge, assistant United States attorney general in charge of the criminal division, announced today. Then he disclosed that the government now would turn special attention to charges of jury tampering.

COLUMBUS MAN FACES HEARING AFTER TRAGEDY

Ray Fields, 26, Driver Of Old Car, Under Arrest In Franklin County

UTES TO BE WEDNESDAY

Three Remain In Hospital With Injuries Received In Collision

Second degree manslaughter charges were filed in the court of Justice of the Peace Jacob Becker in Franklin county, Tuesday, by the state highway patrol against Ray Fields, 26, Negro, of 585 George street, Columbus. Fields is blamed by patrolmen for the three-car collision that caused the death early Monday of Roscoe (Fat) Bailey, 39, of E. Mound street. Fields was to be arraigned Tuesday afternoon.

Funeral services for Mr. Bailey will be conducted Wednesday at 2 p. m. at the M. S. Rinehart funeral home, the Rev. George L. Troutman officiating. Burial will be in Harrison township cemetery, South Bloomfield.

Mr. Bailey died in Mercy hospital, Columbus, two hours after the Jack Foreman car, in which he was riding with Miss Laverne LaRue, 21, of Circleville, figured in the collision at the Hartman farm, south of Columbus. Mr. Bailey's wife, Garnet, was killed in an automobile accident at nearly the same place in 1935. Neck fractures proved fatal to both Mr. Bailey and his wife.

Drunk, Sheriff Says

The office of Sheriff Jacob Sandusky, of Franklin county, said Tuesday that Fields would be charged with second degree manslaughter, operating a motor vehicle when intoxicated and reckless operation.

Fields was grilled Monday by the sheriff, highway patrolmen, Assistant Prosecutor T. Vincent Martin and Acting Coroner Donald Bowers, all of Franklin county.

Sheriff's deputies, reconstructing the tragedy, said that the car driven by Miss LaRue was sideswiped by Fields' auto, and then crashed into the car driven by Shirley Higginbotham, of Richmond. Earlier versions of the tragedy were that Miss LaRue's car sideswiped Fields' and Higginbotham's.

The three persons who remained in Mercy hospital were Miss LaRue, who is suffering from cuts; Albert Legg, 22, of Robertsburg, W. Va., who has a fractured arm and right leg and face cuts, and Ernest Kessel, 30, of Richmond, who is cut. Three others were discharged after treatment.

WIERD ACCIDENT FATAL TO TWO ON WEST COAST

SAN BERNARDINO, Cal., Aug. 8 — Two persons were in critical condition today following a weird accident which claimed two lives—on a road.

Mrs. Bess Arnold Ross, 46, Long Beach socialite, was literally speared to death when an 1100-foot length of four-inch pipe hurtled 1,000 feet down a cliff and penetrated the automobile in which she was riding with Miss Anna McDonald, 52. Miss McDonald was thrown clear but was seriously hurt.

As an aftermath of the accident, Grant Allison, 71, who saw the crash from a few hundred yards behind the Ross car, dropped dead from a heart attack when he rushed to the scene and saw Mrs. Ross' horribly mangled body.

Members of a crew installing the pipe for a gas line said a cable holding the pipe slipped. Henry Dutton, a crew member, was hurled 30 feet and suffered a broken back when the pipe broke loose and began to fall.

Square Dancers, Callers, Fiddlers Will Compete In Annual Fall Festival

Move over ye rug-cuttin' jitterbugs. . . . Clear the way for some real dancers!

Yea man, real dancers!

Circleville's Pumpkin Show, approaching more rapidly than many of you believe, is planning to glorify the REAL American dance—the square dance. That's a fact, the square dance is coming to the big Fall festival and with it will come the old time fiddlers and the dance callers. . . . the best that the community can produce.

Cash prizes, believed by directors of the Pumpkin Show to be attractive enough to guarantee large entry lists, are being arranged. There'll be more than $50 given away during the festival to the best square dancers, the best old time fiddlers and the best dance callers. The prizes will be in three classifications, the awards to be $10, $5 and $2.50 in each division.

The contests will be conducted in N. Court street in front of the B. P. O. Elks home, according to present plans of the committee in whose charge the competition has been placed. Herman Hill, Joe Burns and Joe Lynch have been working on the plan for quite a while and they are ready now to recommend to the remainder of the directors that the square dance, calling and fiddling contests be included in the show's program. The entire project will be under the supervision of Tom D. Krinn, chairman of attractions. An official vote of the board is necessary before the competition becomes certain, but many of the directors have declared they are for it, so approval is merely a formality.

Entry Lists Open

A platform will be constructed and the contests will run for three nights, under present plans of the committee. Entry lists will remain open indefinitely, and persons who wish to participate may file their names at The Daily Herald office. The county's Granges, Parent-Teacher associations, and other rural organizations, and those from the city as well are urged to designate representatives.

Many faithful supporters of the Pumpkin Show believe that the square dance should be a part of the big Fall event. After all, Circleville's Pumpkin Show is a celebration.

MUCH-MARRIED SOCIETY QUEEN SLASHES WRISTS

NEW YORK, Aug. 8 — Gay and lovely Mary Kirk Brown, multiple-married socialite glamor girl, was taken to Wickersham hospital early today with both wrists deeply gashed by a razor in an alleged attempt to end her life.

The 24-year-old brunette, four times married and once reported engaged to Max Baer, was reported in "no danger" at the hospital where, it was said, she was sleeping after administration of a sedative.

Her injuries, it was said, were incurred in the apartment of a friend, Miss Bossie Cohan, and no report was made to police because Mary reportedly told hospital authorities:

"I did it myself."

The hospital to which the society girl was taken is directly across the street from the night club of "Mother" Kelly whose son, Robert A. Kelly, 26, is Miss Brown's fourth husband.

The three previous marriages of the society girl, who had been in a Richmond, Va., sanitarium for a brief period a month ago, broke up in divorce.

Contests For Council Being Waged In Only Two Wards; Others Are Quiet

EARLY RETURNS EXPECTED

Election Believed To Be Most Unusual In City Primary History

The primary election was quietly under way Tuesday in Circleville.

Precinct workers and board of election members relaxed and enjoyed one of the most unusual elections in the county's history.

A check made of the 11 precincts at noon revealed that 192 residents had cast their votes. One hundred and forty were Democratic ballots; 52 were Republican. Republicans had no contests.

The vote was in sharp contrast to the primary of Aug. 10, 1937 when 1,635 votes were cast, 1,511 being Democratic and 123 Republican. The Republicans, under the same conditions as this year, had no opposition. There were four races on the Democratic ticket in 1937. On Nov. 3, 1937 there were 1,864 votes cast for mayor on the Democratic ticket and 1,049 on the Republican side.

Fourth Ward Busy

The heaviest voting Tuesday was in the Fourth Ward where one of the two contests of the primary exists. William M. Reid, incumbent, and Tull M. Barnes, former councilman, are seeking the nomination to council. In the three precincts of the Fourth Ward 63 Democrats had voted up to noon. Only 16 Republicans had voted.

The vote was light in the Third Ward, location of the other primary contest. James I. Smith, Jr., and George G. Groom are candidates for the Third Ward council position being vacated by John Neuding, who is removing from the ward.

In the two precincts of the

Kiwanians Enjoy Evening With 20 Youths In Camp

Circleville Kiwanians enjoyed one of their happiest meetings Monday evening when they gathered at Gold Cliff park with the 20 youngsters who are enrolled in the club's camp for underprivileged boys.

The civic club members ate with the youngsters and took part in a social evening. All members of the club are highly pleased with the outlook for the success of the undertaking. Financed with funds obtained from the Policeman's and Fireman's ball sponsored by the club, the camp is being conducted throughout the entire week. The 20 youths were chosen by various ministers of the city and county.

One young fellow, happy for the opportunity to attend the camp, hiked 12 miles from Robstown, Monday, to enroll. He said he started his trip at 5 o'clock in the morning to be in Circleville in plenty of time.

The youngsters consumed five gallons of milk with their noon meal Monday, so the order was doubled for Tuesday.

A planned program is being conducted during the week with swimming and other exercises and plenty of wholesome food being furnished for the boys.

Various Kiwanians are planning to visit the camp each evening, and other persons interested in the undertaking are urged to visit the boys.

C. OF C. STARTS ANOTHER DRIVE TO ASSIST FUND

The Chamber of Commerce started a campaign at noon Tuesday which will lead up to a "white elephant" sale, proceeds of which will be given to the playground project fund. George Griffith, Earl W. Lutz and Leslie D. May were appointed as a committee to direct the sale.

"White elephants," those numerous articles sitting about the house, in the attic or the basement, "in the way," will be collected by the committee. After enough "white elephants" have been gathered dates will be fixed for a sale. All proceeds will be put into the playground fund.

Frank A. Lynch, chairman of the Elks lodge committee that is directing the $10,000 campaign, expressed high hopes Tuesday that the drive will be a success. "We are moving forward," Mr. Lynch said, "and we feel certain that our campaign will end in success."

The Retail Merchants association is urging all to drop their pennies in quart jars located in nearly all uptown stores. These pennies, a ton of which are sought, will be put into the fund. Land in the northward will be bought and put in condition for a playground under the program now under way.

SENATORS LOOK FOR ANSWER TO FARM PROBLEM

Business Upswing Follows Economy Drive, Wheeler Of Montana Declares

SESSION'S COST LISTED

Rural Mortgage, Tenancy Programs Considered By Strong Group

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 — Predicting a business upswing in the Fall, senate leaders warned today they will force the economy issue at the next session of congress unless the administration curtails spending in proportion to improved conditions.

Plans for the projected economy drive followed appropriations approximating $13,000,000,000 during the last session of congress, a peace-time record.

Senators appealing for economy comprised a bi-partisan group. It included Senators Wheeler (D) Montana, a foremost liberal; George (D) Georgia, conservative; Byrnes (D) South Carolina, and McCarran (D) Nevada.

Asserting that business and industrial conditions are improving rapidly, Wheeler warned, however, that the economic condition of the farmer must be improved before a stabilized economy can be obtained.

Farmer Considered

Wheeler said he will press for action on legislation which will provide funds to relieve the farm mortgage situation and the farm tenancy program.

"I have great faith that we are going to pull out of the economic slump," Wheeler said. "It has been demonstrated that we can't get out by excessive spending. The government must necessarily spend to a certain extent, but business conditions are improving."

Wheeler added that the government has spent "more than we need" for national defense, but said that undoubtedly some of the program has helped business.

"But," he added, "if business conditions continue to improve and the government does not curtail unnecessary expenses, economy will be the big issue at the next session of congress."

George asserted that defeat of President Roosevelt's $4,000,000,000 lending and housing program will have a stimulating effect on business, and the country in general.

"I believe that the country as

C. OF C. STARTS ANOTHER DRIVE TO ASSIST FUND

The Chamber of Commerce started a campaign at noon Tuesday which will lead up to a "white elephant" sale, proceeds of which will be given to the playground project fund. George Griffith, Earl W. Lutz and Leslie D. May were appointed as a committee to direct the sale.

"White elephants," those numerous articles sitting about the house, in the attic or the basement, "in the way," will be collected by the committee. After enough "white elephants" have been gathered dates will be fixed for a sale. All proceeds will be put into the playground fund.

Frank A. Lynch, chairman of the Elks lodge committee that is directing the $10,000 campaign, expressed high hopes Tuesday that the drive will be a success. "We are moving forward," Mr. Lynch said, "and we feel certain that our campaign will end in success."

The Retail Merchants association is urging all to drop their pennies in quart jars located in nearly all uptown stores. These pennies, a ton of which are sought, will be put into the fund. Land in the north end will be bought and put in condition for a playground under the program now under way.

Business Upswing Follows Economy Drive, Wheeler Of Montana Declares

SESSION'S COST LISTED

Rural Mortgage, Tenancy Programs Considered By Strong Group

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 — Predicting a business upswing in the Fall, senate leaders warned today they will force the economy issue at the next session of congress unless the administration curtails spending in proportion to improved conditions.

Plans for the projected economy drive followed appropriations approximating $13,000,000,000 during the last session of congress, a peace-time record.

Senators appealing for economy comprised a bi-partisan group. It included Senators Wheeler (D) Montana, a foremost liberal; George (D) Georgia, conservative; Byrnes (D) South Carolina, and McCarran (D) Nevada.

Asserting that business and industrial conditions are improving rapidly, Wheeler warned, however, that the economic conditions of the farmer must be improved before a stabilized economy can be obtained.

Farmer Considered

Wheeler said he will press for action on legislation which will provide funds to relieve the farm mortgage situation and the farm tenancy program.

"I have great faith that we are going to pull out of the economic slump," Wheeler said. "It has been demonstrated that we can't get out by excessive spending. The government must necessarily spend to a certain extent, but business conditions are improving."

Wheeler added that the government has spent "more than we need" for national defense, but said that undoubtedly some of the program has helped business.

"But," he added, "if business conditions continue to improve and the government does not curtail unnecessary expenses, economy will be the big issue at the next session of congress."

George asserted that defeat of President Roosevelt's $4,000,000,000 lending and housing program will have a stimulating effect on business, and the country in general.

"I believe that the country as

James Noble Tootle, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Tootle, Monroe township, has an appointment as principal candidate to West Point. The appointment was made by Congressman Harold K. Claypool, of Chillicothe.

Tootle, a graduate of Monroe township school this year, will enter West Point in July, 1940 if he successfully passes his physical and mental examinations.

The youth has been keenly interested in aeronautical engineering. He ranked fifth in Pickaway county in the senior scholarship tests last Spring and was an honor student through high school.

Young Tootle is a brother of Mrs. Ray W. Davis, Montclair avenue.

CAMBRIDGE, Aug. 8 — De-fended by a court-appointed attorney, 19-year-old Louis W. Pope, alleged trigger man in the holdup slaying of former Sheriff R. E. Willis, was brought to trial today.

Willis was shot to death in his tourist camp on May 30 when he resisted the attempts of two bandits to rob him. Pope was taken into custody along with John P. Mitchell, 17, Van Wert, O., a few hours after the crime. Mitchell's trial date has not been set.

ADOLF'S CONFAB WITH FOERSTER VITAL TO DANZIG

"Herring And Margarine" Trouble Endangers Free City

DANZIG, Aug. 8.—Settlement of renewed tension between Poland and Germany over customs control in Danzig was regarded today as depending largely on the anticipated meeting of Chancellor Adolf Hitler and Albert Foerster, Danzig Nazi leader, at Berchtesgaden.

Danzig quarters felt that Poland was dissatisfied with the Nazi-ruled free city senate's latest note in the customs dispute, even though it expressed Danzig's willingness to discuss matters.

Foerster arrived yesterday at Salzburg, near Berchtesgaden, and it was assumed that he would see Hitler within a day or two.

Truculent phrases were hurled from both Danzig and Warsaw in the "war of herring and margarine," but on the whole the situation was regarded as less likely to cause an explosion than at any time since Poland delivered a vague "ultimatum" to the Danzig senate Saturday.

The quarrel began when Poland withdrew customs inspectors from Danzig herring and margarine transshippers, thereby cutting off their trade with Poland. Their products, by treaty, were supposed to enter Poland duty-free.

Expulsion Threatened

Danzig's quick retaliation was a threat to expel all Polish customs inspectors, and Poland's rejoinder was the equipment of the inspectors with rifles instead of pistols. Unspecified "forceful measures," Poland warned on Saturday, would be taken if Danzig tried to oust the customs men.

Although Danzig pointed out the danger of drastic action by Poland at this time, and accused Warsaw of a "parade of arms by Polish customs officials," the senate agreed to talk over the situation with Marian Chodacki, Polish commissioner for Danzig.

Under the Treaty of Versailles and by the Danzig-Poland pact of 1920, the free city's customs are under Polish supervision. In a speech at Cracow Sunday, Marshal Edward Smigly-Rydz, inspector-general of the Polish army and the major power in Poland, warned that "Polish guns may roar" if her treaty privileges in Danzig are violated.

peacefully negotiate their present commercial differences was voiced by a British spokesman today as the British government took a firmer attitude toward Japan in rejecting any "monetary Munich" regarding Chinese currency.

The last weekend brought an "outcropping of common sense," it was said, which resulted in the hope that points at issue can be discussed in a conference among the interested parties in the near future.

Possibility of direct conversations between Germany and Poland regarding the Danzig situation was not excluded.

With regard to Japan, it was emphasized that Britain is still maintaining close contact with France and the United States.

A government spokesman said his majesty's government is not at all impressed by Japanese militarists' insistence that talks in Tokyo aimed for a general settlement of Anglo-Japanese differences in China be hastened.

TOKYO, Aug. 8.—Demands of the army and some super-patriotic groups that Japan join the unqualified Italo-German military alliance suffered a blow today when major figures in the cabinet clearly showed reluctance to rush into such an entanglement.

Members of the "inner cabinet" met today with Premier Baron Kichiro Hiranuma and discussed relations of the civil authorities and the army—two powers which usually are at cross-purposes—and the general European situation.

The key cabinet ministers, it was authoritatively stated, decided to examine minutely the probable sequels of any Japanese decision regarding joining the Rome-Berlin alliance.

Reconsideration of Japan's attitude toward the alliance, following the cabinet's decision in June to avoid any commitments in that direction, was a direct result of America's abrogation of the 1911 trade treaty, it was asserted in the press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 8.—Mayor Edward J. Kelly vouched for this fish story today—and no one contradicts a mayor.

Just back from a California vacation, Mayor Kelly told his story as follows:

"Out there a certain kind of fish, something like fresh water smelts, runs on an almanac schedule. The fish were due one night at 10:45 o'clock while I was visiting Pat O'Brien, the film star, at his seashore Summer home.

"Sure enough the fish arrived on the dot. We caught 'em in buckets."

With the exception of the Democratic votes in the Third and Fourth Wards, the voting in other precincts was considered merely complimentary to candidates without opposition. No reports of movements to write in candidates were received.

Reports obtained from the precincts at the noon check revealed the following ballots issued: First Ward A, nine Democratic, four Republican; First Ward B, eight Democratic, five Republican; First Ward C, nine Democratic, seven Republican; First Ward D, five Democratic, one Republican; Second Ward A, fourteen Democratic, seven Republican; Second Ward B, nine Democratic, seven Republican; Third Ward A, 12 Democratic, three Republican; Third Ward B, 11 Democratic, two Republican; Fourth Ward A, 20 Democratic, five Republican; Fourth Ward B, 18 Democratic, two Republican and Fourth Ward C, 25 Democratic and nine Republican.

COLUMBUS, Aug. 8.—Although today was primary day in approximately 200 Ohio cities and villages, there was to be voting in only 65 as the others were lacking in party contests and special issues.

The largest cities—Cleveland, Cincinnati, Columbus and Dayton—had no primary, their charters making provisions for other election dates.

In Dayton, interest centered on tax issues. The first, to permit issuance of a 1.5 mill tax for poor relief, needed only a majority vote to pass. The other was for a two mill levy for public schools, frequently in financial trouble.

Bond issues included one for $250,000 to buy rights of way for a higher flood wall in Portsmouth and one for $800,000 to replace 60 percent of Mansfield's water mains and build new trunk sewers.

Jesse J. Complanter, a Seneca Indian, widely known for his interpretations of the songs and dances of his tribe, will participate in the program, to start at 2 p. m.

Complanter resides at the Tonawanda Indian Reservation near Basom, N. Y. An entertainer, lecturer and author, he has broadcast on many radio programs and appeared at the Great Lakes Exposition in Cleveland.

He is a descendant of Complanter of American Revolution fame. His tribal name is "Hanyon-wonh-ish," which means "he strikes the reeds."

The committee has contacted a speaker of national prominence.

The indictment of Leche stood out as the most sensational bill yet returned in the seven-week old probe into charges that the heirs of the late "Kingfish" used the machine he built to make themselves wealthy and politically omnipotent within the state.

Eighteen persons now face varying charges brought against them by the federal grand jury and a parish grand jury at Baton Rouge.

Members of the committee are Mrs. Irene S. McKinley, 30 W. Fifth avenue, Columbus; David E. Crouse, Kingston, and John F. Carlisle, Columbus attorney. Mr. Crouse is chairman. The committee met Monday at the home of Mrs. McKinley.

This year's celebration will be the 27th sponsored by the association. The history group of the Norwester club of Grandview, Arlington and Marble Cliff, is co-operating with the Ohio History Day association in the plans for this year's event.

The annual program attracts thousands to the park. Officers of the association are Mrs. Howard Jones, Park Place, president; Mr. Carlisle, vice president; Mrs. Helen Black Anderson, recording secretary; Mrs. Anna Chandler, corresponding secretary, and M. E. Noggle, treasurer.

a whole will accept their defeat as meaning that spending and lending for pump-priming purposes has been checked, and that congress is again assuming its responsibilities for legislative policies," George said.

McCarran and Byrnes expressed the opinion that improved business conditions should be a signal for general curtailment of spending, if the volume of the pick-up is large enough to take up a substantial share of unemployment.

Budget Cut Certain?

"I think business is going to pick up and the economy drive should be even more successful next year," McCarran said. "I think it will be one of the major issues at the next session unless the administration reduces the budget within reason."

Wheeler said "the agriculture problem in my judgment is still the number one problem facing the country."

"Industry is geared to mass production," he added, "and you can't have mass income to take up the mass production if farmers have to continue to sell their products at less than cost."

Danzig's quick retaliation was a threat to expel all Polish customs inspectors, and Poland's rejoinder was the equipment of the inspectors with rifles instead of pistols. Unspecified "forceful measures," Poland warned on Saturday, would be taken if Danzig tried to oust the customs men.

peacefully negotiate their present commercial differences was voiced by a British spokesman today as the British government took a firmer attitude toward Japan in rejecting any "monetary Munich" regarding Chinese currency.

The last weekend brought an "outcropping of common sense," it was said, which resulted in the hope that points at issue can be discussed in a conference among the interested parties in the near future.

Possibility of direct conversations between Germany and Poland regarding the Danzig situation was not excluded.

With regard to Japan, it was emphasized that Britain is still maintaining close contact with France and the United States.

A government spokesman said his majesty's government is not at all impressed by Japanese militarists' insistence that talks in Tokyo aimed for a general settlement of Anglo-Japanese differences in China be hastened.

TOKYO, Aug. 8.—Demands of the army and some super-patriotic groups that Japan join the unqualified Italo-German military alliance suffered a blow today when major figures in the cabinet clearly showed reluctance to rush into such an entanglement.

Members of the "inner cabinet" met today with Premier Baron Kiichiro Hiranuma and discussed relations of the civil authorities and the army—two powers which usually are at cross-purposes—and the general European situation.

The key cabinet ministers, it was authoritatively stated, decided to examine minutely the probable sequel of any Japanese decision regarding joining the Rome-Berlin alliance.

Reconsideration of Japan's attitude toward the alliance, following the cabinet's decision in June to avoid any commitments in that direction, was a direct result of America's abrogation of the 1911 trade treaty, it was asserted in the press.

60 SAFE AFTER BOAT IS FLOATED OFF LAKE REEFS

CHICAGO, Aug. 8.—Carrying sixty persons, most of them Sea Scouts, the three-masted Schooner Oliver H. Perry was safely floated off the perilous Ile Aux Galets reef about 300 miles north-east of Chicago in Lake Michigan last night, the coast guard reported today.

MAYOR KELLY DECLARES THIS FISH STORY TRUE

CHICAGO, Aug. 8.—Mayor Edward J. Kelly vouched for this fish story today—and no one contradicts a mayor.

Just back from a California vacation, Mayor Kelly told his story as follows:

"Out there a certain kind of fish, something like fresh water smelts, runs on an almanac schedule. The fish were due one night at 10:45 o'clock while I was visiting Pat O'Brien, the film star, at his seashore Summer home.

"Sure enough the fish arrived on the dot. We caught 'em in buckets."

LESS THAN 200 BALLOTS VOTED PRIOR TO NOON

Third Ward the vote was 23 Democratic, five Republican.

The board of elections expects to have all election results tabulated by 3 p. m. They believe precinct workers will finish up all their work and report to the board before going home for supper. The polls close at 6:30 p. m.

Voting Complimentary

With the exception of the Democratic votes in the Third and Fourth Wards, the voting in other precincts was considered merely complimentary to candidates without opposition. No reports of movements to write in candidates were received.

Reports obtained from the precincts at the noon check revealed the following ballots issued: First Ward A, nine Democratic, four Republican; First Ward B, eight Democratic, five Republican; First Ward C, nine Democratic, seven Republican; First Ward D, five Democratic, one Republican; Second Ward A, fourteen Democratic, seven Republican; Second Ward B, nine Democratic, seven Republican; Third Ward A, 12 Democratic, three Republican; Third Ward B, 11 Democratic, two Republican; Fourth Ward A, 20 Democratic, five Republican; Fourth Ward B, 18 Democratic, two Republican and Fourth Ward C, 25 Democratic and nine Republican.

COLUMBUS, Aug. 8.—Although today was primary day in approximately 200 Ohio cities and villages, there was to be voting in only 65 as the others were lacking in party contests and special issues.

The largest cities—Cleveland, Cincinnati, Columbus and Dayton—had no primary, their charters making provisions for other election dates.

In Dayton, interest centered on tax issues. The first, to permit issuance of a 1.5 mill tax for poor relief, needed only a majority vote to pass. The other was for a two mill levy for public schools, frequently in financial trouble.

Bond issues included one for $250,000 to buy rights of way for a higher flood wall in Portsmouth and one for $500,000 to replace 60 percent of Mansfield's water mains and build new trunk sewers.

Fight in Chillicothe

In Chillicothe, there was a three-way battle for the Democratic nomination for mayor while the Republican incumbent, Harold H. Brown, was unopposed.

Lancaster's Republican mayor, J. D. Huddle, was unopposed within the party. In Democratic ranks, Earl Caldwell, supported by a labor faction, sought the nomination over Noble Coen, former Fairfield county old age pension administrator.

WOMAN FINED ON COUNT OF DISORDERLY CONDUCT

Lillian Rose, 25, who gave her address as Circleville, was fined $5 and costs on a disorderly conduct charge in Chillicothe police court Monday afternoon and committed to the Ross county jail when she failed to pay.

The charge resulted from the stabbing of William Richards, 18, a Camp Ross enrollee. The cut was a half inch long flesh wound. Richards refused to file charges. Police Chief Russell Poole filed the disorderly conduct charge.

YOUNG DRIVER CITED

Lawrence Minor, 21, of Laurel street, Chillicothe, paid a fine of $10 and costs in Mayor W. B. Cady's court, Monday night, on a charge of permitting an unlicensed operator to drive his car. Minor was arrested Sunday night on Route 23 by a state highway patrolman and ordered to report for a hearing.

a whole will accept their defeat as meaning that spending and lending for pump-priming purposes has been checked, and that congress is again assuming its responsibilities for legislative policies," George said.

McCarran and Byrnes expressed the opinion that improved business conditions should be a signal for general curtailment of spending, if the volume of the pick-up is large enough to take up a substantial share of unemployment.

Budget Cut Certain?

"I think business is going to pick up and the economy drive should be even more successful next year," McCarran said. "I think it will be one of the major issues at the next session unless the administration reduces the budget within reason."

Wheeler said "the agriculture problem in my judgment is still the number one problem facing the country."

"Industry is geared to mass production," he added, "and you can't have mass income to take up the mass production if farmers have to continue to sell their products at less than cost."

Lloyd E. Volk, of the fish management department of the conservation department, is expected in Pickaway county Wednesday to check county streams. Clarence Francis, county conservation officer, will accompany Mr. Volk on his inspection trip.

$50 A Month Pension For All Retired Over 60 May Be Decided

FILING DEADLINE NEARS

Ohio C. Of C. In Desperate Attempt To Forestall Ex-Solon's Action

COLUMBUS, Aug. 8.—Proposing a $50 a month pension for all retired persons over 60 years of age and a drastic reduction in the number of signatures required for initiated laws and constitutional amendments, the Bigelow amendments were believed today to be the only ones to stand a chance to face voter approval in November.

Deadline for filing of petitions for constitutional amendments is 6:30 p. m. Tuesday and all other proposed amendments have been withdrawn for lack of signatures. One proposed amendment, to establish a state board of education, will appear on the ballot through legislative action.

The Bigelow petitions were sponsored by Herbert S. Bigelow, Cincinnati, former congressman, who was expected to personally file his proposals, with adequate signatures, with the secretary of state.

The Ohio Chamber of Commerce has been a leading factor in opposing the pension plan and other organizations have been only slightly less active in condemning, contending the tax load would be substantially increased.

Automatically, the pension plan would levy a personal and corporate income tax equal to one-fourth the federal income tax paid the preceding year as well as a special tax on real estate valued at more than $20,000 an acre.

The Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

Thousands of bookmakers all over the country were interviewed and asked how much money they were paying Annenberg. Hitherto, the Treasury had had no means of checking on the income Annenberg was receiving. Some of the bookies were sore at Moe and talked more freely.

During the investigation, the Treasury also ran into trouble with men of much less stature than Annenberg. A bookmaker, for instance, would be quite frank in admitting that he paid protection money to the police. If he did report it, the Treasury wouldn't allow it. Nor could the bookies prove how much they had paid out to customers on bets.

PITY THE POOR BOOKIES

One result of the Annenberg hearing has been that the Government has taken pity on the poor bookies, and has worked out an estimate whereby a bookmaker's net income is calculated to be 6 percent of his gross income. Last week the Treasury sent instructions to its agents in all big cities to this effect.

With Moe Annenberg, however, the Treasury has not been so compassionate. Internal Revenue agents estimate that as owner of Daily Racing Form, publisher of almost every scratch sheet on the market, and holder of a monopoly on communications between thousands of bookies and the racetracks, Annenberg should have one of the highest incomes in the country.

That is what the first grand jury hearing in Chicago is all about. The second grand jury, less spectacular but important, is listening to testimony that Annenberg was violating the Sherman anti-trust act by muscling into the racetrack racket and trying to keep others out of the field of purveying race results.

(A second article on the fate of the Democratic Party as a result of the Annenberg hearing, will follow shortly.)

PETTENGILL "The Gentleman from Indiana"

MR. ARNOLD TAKES A PILL

A bitter pill, without sugar coating, was prescribed for the Department of Justice in Washington the other day by Federal Judge Proctor. He held that the practice of medicine is not a trade within the meaning of the Sherman Trust Act of 1890. This brought to an end the much ballyhooed indictment against the American Medical Association.

The decision is clearly right. Trade is the sale and exchange of goods, wares and merchandise. It does not include the practice of medicine, nor the surgeon, engineer, teacher, architect, editor, or minister, of the gospel. Hence, whatever the physicians may have done, they had not violated the act under which they were indicted.

That this case was ever instituted in good faith is pious to serious question. On the contrary, there are many signs that criminal prosecution was brought against the members of a great profession, in order to discredit them and thus PETTENGILL break down their resistance to pending legislative proposals to socialize medicine, under the general collectivistic tendencies of the Fourth New Deal. If they testified against the Wagner political medicine bill, they would appear as indicted if not convicted criminals.

This case had a foul odor from the beginning. At the end the Department of Justice could not take its licking like a man, but had to emit this alibi:

"None of the reasoning of the opinion persuades the Department that doctors are free to engage in practices which would be illegal if they belonged to some other calling".

Now there is something colossal for you! If it were simply a crybaby whining over losing a case it would demonstrate only that Assistant Attorney General Thurman Arnold needs iron in his blood. But it goes deeper than that, for it illustrates the disregard for civil rights which has been manifested by Mr. Arnold's clever young men all through this proceeding. It assumes that the doctors have actually, even if not technically, done something illegal, although there has been no proof, evidence, finding or judgment to that effect. Having lost in court they continue to besmirch the defendants before the public.

The thing about this statement which cannot be overlooked is the contempt which it shows for law itself. For when is an act "illegal"? Only when some law forbids it. If there is no such law, there is no occasion for Mr. Arnold to scold anybody, any time, anywhere. No one ever elected Mr. Arnold official censor of the conduct of anybody.

This goes to the whole question whether we are living under a government of law, or a government of men. Although Congress, the law-making body, has not seen fit to declare conduct illegal, the Department of Justice has had small compunction in destroying, if possible, characters which men have spent a lifetime to build. It is of exactly the same kidney as John Lewis' attack on one of the most respected men in America.—Garner of Texas.

According to the notion of the petty tyrants living off Uncle Sam's pay roll, anything is or should be illegal, if under different circumstances, it would be illegal. Thank of that! Because it is illegal for a man to fail to provide for a woman who is his wife, it is or should be illegal for a man to fail to provide for a woman who is not his wife!

Congress, for example, has expressly excluded from the operation of the Sherman anti-trust act, the income tax act, etc., certain practices of labor organizations, farmers' cooperatives, and the like. If done by these people they are not illegal. Congress says so. If done by manufacturers they are illegal. Why? Because Congress says so in one case and not in the other. Will Mr. Arnold prosecute these organizations because what they do "would be illegal if they belonged to some other calling"? Hardly.

This whole proceeding has been one of the rawest abuses of official power in the annals of American injustice. Before a grand jury was ever convened, and again when it was sitting, Mr. Arnold and his merry men issued press statements and made public speeches that the American Medical Association "is in violation of the anti-trust laws". This could have been done only to prejudice jurors, witnesses and the public against men in advance of trial.

And what had the doctors done? They had attempted to fight back against public money—derived from taxation—being used to compete with them and destroy their livelihood. They had attempted to assert their rights under the Pickaway county will receive $1,212 under a distribution of poor relief money derived from beer and admission tax revenues announced Tuesday by State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson. The 88 counties will receive $253,781.

These funds, the county auditor explained, are received monthly. At the same time the state auditor released to 43 counties poor relief money totalling $877,217 under the provisions of the $5,000,000 special appropriation enacted by the 93rd general assembly.

Pickaway county was not included in this second distribution. It was pointed out the counties having funds on hand to meet relief expenses do not receive state matching funds.

"The Gentleman from Indiana"

A bitter pill, without sugar coating, was prescribed for the Department of Justice in Washington the other day by Federal Judge Proctor. He held that the practice of medicine is not a trade within the meaning of the Sherman Trust Act of 1889. This brought to an end the much ballyhooed indictment against the American Medical Association.

The decision is clearly right. Trade is the sale and exchange of goods, wares and merchandise. It does not include the practice of medicine, nor the surgeon, engineer, teacher, architect, editor, or minister, of the gospel. Hence, whatever the physicians may have done, they had not violated the act under which they were indicted.

That this case was ever instituted in good faith is pome to serious question. On the contrary, there are many signs that criminal prosecution was brought against the members of a great profession, in order to discredit them and thus PETTENGILL break down their resistance to pending legislative proposals to socialize medicine, under the general collectivist tendencies of the Fourth New Deal. If they testified against the Wagner political medicine bill, they would appear as indicted if not convicted criminals.

This case had a foul odor from the beginning. At the end the Department of Justice could not take its licking like a man, but had to emit this alibi:

"None of the reasoning of the opinion persuades the Department that doctors are free to engage in practices which would be illegal if they belonged to some other calling."

Now there is something colossal for you! If it were simply a crybaby whining over losing a case it would demonstrate only that Assistant Attorney General Thurman Arnold needs iron in his blood. But it goes deeper than that, for it illustrates the disregard for civil rights which has been manifested by Mr. Arnold's clever young men all through this proceeding. It assumes that the doctors have actually, even if not technically, done something illegal, although there has been no proof, evidence, finding or judgment to that effect. Having lost in court they continue to besmirch the defendants before the public.

The thing about this statement which cannot be overlooked is the contempt which it shows for law itself. For when is an act "illegal"? Only when some law forbids it. If there is no such law, there is no occasion for Mr. Arnold to scold anybody, any time, anywhere. No one ever elected Mr. Arnold official censor of the conduct of anybody.

This goes to the whole question whether we are living under a government of law, or a government of men. Although Congress, the law-making body, has not seen fit to declare conduct illegal, the Department of Justice has had small compunction in destroying, it possible, characters which men

COUNTY TO GET $1,212 IN FUNDS FROM BEER TAX

Pickaway county will receive $1,212 under a distribution of poor relief money derived from beer and admission tax revenues announced Tuesday by State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson. The 88 counties will receive $253,781.

These funds, the county auditor explained, are received monthly. At the same time the state auditor released to 43 counties poor relief money totalling $877,217 under the provisions of the $5,000,000 special appropriation enacted by the 93rd general assembly.

Pickaway county was not included in this second distribution. It was pointed out the counties having funds on hand to meet relief expenses do not receive state matching funds.

WORLD TOUR FOR HITLER

HITLER needs a vacation. Not just a weekend at his eagle's nest in the Bavarian Alps. Not a trip to Italy or to any of the southeastern European countries.

Hitler never has got around much and knows nothing of how people live and what they really think outside of his own group and country. He should have real travel. A world cruise would be fine, with a long enough stop-over in the United States really to see this varied land and to observe its varied people, including the thousands of good American citizens of German stock.

He should have hand-picked hosts on such a world tour, not Nazi sympathizers or German-haters, but people who can see Der Fuehrer in historical perspective and who are awake to the great possibilities of human progress. Architect Frank Lloyd Wright could probably change Hitler's usual train of thought effectively. Oswald Garrison Villard, Paul Kellogg of The Survey, Dr. Alexis Carrel, Senator Norris, Henry Ford and President Roosevelt are others who could "wise him up" to what's going on in the world beyond the Nazi-Fascist-Communist areas.

The idea grows on one. But it's probably one of those things that nothing can be done about.

SWIMS FOR SUICIDES

PEOPLE who attempt suicide are almost glad to be saved. That is the word of Captain Nels Palmer of Ludington, Mich., who has saved so many lives while in the Great Lakes Coast Guard service that he no longer remembers how many they are. In 34 years in the Coast Guard this total mounts up.

"It seems most of them are just temporarily unbalanced when they decide to end it all and the water is great medicine for restoring balance."

There is healing in cold water, for more ills than many imagine. If you are depressed to the busting joint, go in swimming if you can. If you can't, try a cold bath in tub or shower. Even a mere cool sponge-off has been known to change the look of the universe.

There used to be a saying that no woman ever committed suicide on her way back from buying a new hat. And any man coming back with his hair wet and his head cool from a good, refreshing swim will be willing to give the good old earth one more try.

While the astronomers are looking at Mars, we'd like to know if there's any way of going there till this earthly rumpus blows over.

Heard another chapter of the never-ending argument between Barristers Max Seyfert and Earl Smith over the killing of a cock pheasant one hunting season several years ago. Max says he was crossing a big field, saw a hunter in the distance, heard three shots in rapid succession and that a big bird came sailing directly at him. Max fired once, according to his story, and the pheasant fell dead at his feet. Earl insists that the bird was mortally wounded by his three shots and that Max missed him. However, the proof of the pudding is supposed to be in the eating and Max ate the pheasant.

ANNENBERG CASE WATCHED
CHICAGO—For more than two months now a steady stream of witnesses—150 in all—has been filing in before two Chicago federal grand juries in the case of Moses Annenberg, big-shot Philadelphia publisher and biggest distributor of racing information the world has known.

Outside Chicago, the country has scarcely heard of this investigation, yet it reaches down into the very roots of Democratic politics, and it touches the sporting nerves of perhaps one-fourth of the American people.

For the probe of Moe Annenberg's bizarre career has gone into every phase of the racetrack gambling racket. How much the government will prove remains to be seen, but before the final Annenberg proceedings are over the entire story of America's huge racing industry will be laid before the public.

The general public will not be so much interested in the political ramifications of the Annenberg case, but Republican politicians will. For the trail of Annenberg's activities in Chicago weaves in and out the warp and woof of the Kelly-Nash machine, which, like Pendergast in Kansas City, Tammany in New York and the Long-Maestri machine in New Orleans, voted enthusiastically for Roosevelt and expected immunity in return.

It is Mayor Kelly of Chicago who always swings the huge Chicago vote into the Democratic column to make up for Republican leads in down-state Illinois. And it is Mayor Kelly who enthusiastically roots for Roosevelt for a third term.

But now the man whom Kelly would re-elect apparently is bent upon pulling the machine which helped elect him in '32 and '36 down upon His Honor's ears, as is being done in other great Democratic cities. That, however, is a story in itself.

TELEPHONE EMPIRE

To return to Annenberg, the trail goes back approximately four years when the Treasury first began poking a nose into his income tax. Annenberg paid a tremendous income tax, but also he was one of the wealthiest men in the country. In addition to his newspapers and magazines, he operates the Nationwide News Service Teleflash system which carry racing results from every track in the country.

This is a monopoly. No other agency supplies this news, and Annenberg has set up a private telephone and telegraph empire that few people knew anything about. Taxes on telephone calls are merely one item in the huge tax bill the Government is presenting Annenberg.

Although Internal Revenue agents pried into Annenberg's income tax as early as four years ago, they couldn't get anything tangible until about two years ago when they ran across his private code.

This was a windfall. For through this code they were able to trace every bookie in the country with whom Annenberg did business.

66 REVENUE AGENTS

At this point, Secretary Morgenthau himself reviewed the case and assigned 50 revenue agents and 16 special agents to do nothing except dig up evidence for the Annenberg suit.

DIET AND HEALTH

Pollens Usher in Hay Fever Week

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

MY COUSIN Alice who was sitting with me on the porch suddenly said, "Do you know what next week is?" "National Milk Week," I answered. "No," "National Glue Week"—became glue conscious," I guessed again.

"No," she said decisively, "National Hay Fever Week, and I am it."

Invisible Cloud of Pollen

So it is, so it is! On or about August 15 the annual escapement of the pollen from the dear little ragweeds occurs. That cloud of pollen, invisible except in a bright ray of sunshine, will spread over the country from lower Canada to the borders of Texas, from the Atlantic Ocean to the Rocky Mountains.

California and the Pacific Coast will not be affected by the ragweed pollination, nor the mountain climates in general. And in the northern parts of Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota, the hay-feverite will be comfortable most of the time—except when the wind is from the south.

Wherever that cloud of pollen spreads its airy pall, a certain number of our respectable, right-minded, lovable friends will be made acutely uncomfortable, for no fault of their own, while you and I, who are probably far more deserving of punishment than they, will be serenely indifferent to the pollen invasion, even though we may snuff just as many pounds of pollen into our nostrils as they.

Hay Fever Problems

My cousin Alice thinks it's very unjust and, being an intellectual, volter against hay fever, wants to know certain things. I suppose all hay-feverite Cousin-Alices want to know the same thing.

First: Why—why should it be me? What is the matter inside me that makes me begin to sneeze and weep August 15, when the rest of you are so calm?

Second: Is there anything I can do to change it? How can I make myself like the rest of you, for whom there is no hay fever season?

Third: How many of us hay-feverites are there?

Fourth: Is there any way to get relief during the season?

These are important questions and not easy to answer entirely satisfactorily. The third is the easiest. Estimates vary, but it can be said fairly accurately that about one out of every fifteen people in the hay fever area of North America will be uncomfortable next week.

Belongs in Allergy Group

Hay fever belongs to the group of diseases known as allergy. A simpler word is idiosyncrasy. Certain people are sensitive to the pollens of certain plants, and when they breathe these pollens they have a swelling and stuffiness of the nose and a swelling of the lining of the bronchial tubes, causing asthma. When the pollens strike the conjunctiva of the eye, they have redness and weeping. And they feel bad all over. And that's hay fever.

What is the cause of it? Why are some people affected by the pollens and not others? It must be some peculiar chemistry in the blood. But what this is, I am afraid the specialists on the subject have by no means made clear.

I have before me an enormous tome of over a thousand pages. It is the latest treatise on allergy. And after reading the chapters on the nature of the condition, I am as much confused as ever. We know some practical facts and those I will try to point out in articles that are to follow.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

V. S. J.: "What is the correct meaning of the word 'adhesions'? What do they come from, and would they give a patient discomfort all of the time? I had this trouble before my operation, which was for a cyst on my left ovary. Now I still feel the same sticking sensation in my side."

Answer—Adhesions are abnormal strands of tissue which follow inflammation or operation and bind two body surfaces together. For instance, if you burned the skin on the inside of the fingers, and this burned area healed so that the two fingers were bound together by scar tissue, this would be an adhesion. Usually adhesions refer to abdominal adhesions. The delicate surface of the peritoneum is peculiarly adapted to forming bands of adhesions after any abdominal operation or inflammation, such as appendicitis, within the abdomen. Formerly surgeons believed that these adhesions caused many symptoms. Nowadays accomplished surgeons are inclined to feel they do no harm, probably do not cause the symptoms once ascribed to them, and had best be left alone.

Phantom Ranch

WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

SYNOPSIS
LORENA HAMILTON has come to Arizona to visit her uncle GEORGE BRAZEE, owner of Phantom ranch, whose leading cowboys are SHOT ROGERS, who happened to meet Lorena at the railway station, and JERRY DALE, college-bred newcomer, who found her after three Mexicans had tried to kidnap her.

CHAPTER TEN
SHOT ROGERS, tall and rather slender, but full of masculine grace, walked from Mrs. Brazee's kitchen door with his great felt hat still held in one hand, and a lazy old chuckawalla dangling from the other. The lizard wriggled once, tentatively.

"Hold on, old-timer," Shot calmed it as he might have spoken to his horse. "No harm's coming. You got to show off a little is all."

Shot's spurs sang their clink-clink-clink rhythm as he walked. He glanced back once at his horse waiting obediently near the front porch, reins down. But he was going to speak to a girl, and had his hands full; he'd just walk on. He put the chuckawalla against his body to keep it soothed.

The land rise there wasn't much, but it did shield the bull pastures from view. Shot was clinking up his side of the slope when Lorena herself appeared suddenly on the crest, some hundred feet away. She was alone and running.

"Hello! A bull after you?" Shot demanded. Part of his alarm was genuine.

She stopped running. "Oh! Oh, no! Hello, Mr. Rogers!"

Shot stared hard at her. Her face was pale, strained. He thought her beautiful in white. He was impressed by her brown curls.

"I brought you something—wait! Don't come too close, yet. I don't want to scare you none, ma'am. Are you—you feel all right? I mean—do you feel all right? You had a hard experience last night, and you'd ought to feel all tucked, Miss Lorena."

"No, it isn't that. I—I feel fine now. I slept all afternoon. I'm all right. What did you bring me?" She managed a smile, and so he moved the hand that had concealed his gift against his body. But he still was carefully standing some six or eight feet away from her.

"Why—what in the world?" He laughed happily, boyishly. "Don't be afraid, ma'am. He's as harmless as a cat. More so. A cat'll scratch."

"Gee glory, Mr. Rogers!" She edged closer to the thing on his arm.

"It's a chuckawalla; a big rock lizard common out here. He never does no—never does any harm. You want him? For a while?" Lorena looked up at Shot's face then. He wasn't teasing, she saw. He was really proffering a gift, as a school boy might.

She stepped forward and held out her hand, taking the beast easily back of the front legs and being careful not to hurt it. It squirmed some in the transfer, but she supported it's body and cuddled it with care.

"Well, I'll be switched! Well, I'll be!" stammered Shot, proudly beaming. "You're not a bit afraid!" "Did you expect me to be?" "Why—why—why, no! But—well, you're a dude girl, and this critter is not exactly dainty, and—"

"He's hideous, but he's cute," she said, smiling ear to ear. "And you told me he was harmless."

"Your color's come back. Were you running from a bull, sure 'nough?"

Her lips suddenly set angrily. "Why—yes, I think I was, Mr. Rogers!" She snapped it at him.

"Oh! I beg yore pardon, ma'am. I didn't mean to stick my neck—"

"It's all right. It's—it's nothing. Really, I'm ever so glad to see you,

Today's Horoscope

The year just starting for today's birthday children will be fairly fortunate. See to it, however, that you do not quarrel with elders and safeguard your health. Gambling tendencies should be checked in the child born on this date. He or she will be materialistic and inclined to take chances—almost always losing.

and the wild monster you brought me!"

Jerry Dale came walking over the rise from the bull pastures then, walked rather slowly and wearing a grin as if in high amusement.

Rogers glanced at him, then back at the girl. She centered her attention on petting and stroking the chuckawalla's rough old hide. Rogers looked quizzically at Jerry as he came up to them.

"So you can't take it, eh?" said Jerry, ignoring Shot.

"Howdy," said Shot, agreeably. "I was just showing Miss Lorena a chuckawalla. She never saw one before."

"Nuts," said Jerry. "Listen, Lorena, you don't want to fly off the handle like that. You and I are going to get along, kid! Everything's jake. No hard feelings." He looked directly at Shot Rogers then, for the first time. "Lorena and I were out for a walk together, Rogers. See?"

"Yes! Yes, come on!" said Lorena, hastily. "Let me carry the zoo, Mr. Rogers, and we'll walk a bit before supper." She exhaled as if in sudden relief. Her left arm held the lizard, and with her right she reached to take Shot Rogers's elbow, steering him with them slowly down the hill, pretending deep interest in the lizard.

Shot, badly confused, stalked beside her. He looked over her head at the other young man, but Jerry was scowling at Lorena and at the lizard she held. Shot didn't understand it all. He just sensed that Lorena wanted to stick with him; the determined pressure of her hand on his arm indicated that. The cowboy swallowed hard.

"It—uh—it's right pleasant weather herabouts," he ventured, profoundly. "What I mean, ma'am, it's good for the stock and all, and it don't do—it doesn't do people any harm to have a cool attitude like this to work in. Gets awful hot down around Blanco and toward Tucson in summer."

"Listen, Lorena," Jerry put in, "you've got—"

But she quickly interrupted. "We've got to get back toward the house for supper. Aunt Sally wouldn't want us to be late. She and Concha were baking some cakes for you boys. All of you men. The men Uncle George hired, they'll be here for supper, too. I imagine?" She ended on a questioning note.

"Listen," Jerry began again, "I—"

"Yes, ma'am," Shot picked up the conversation at once, steering them back toward the porch. "We'll all be here tonight. We got to do some

Those whose birthday it is are facing a year of moderate opportunity for advancement or success, especially in connection with large corporations or political or diplomatic circles where strategem or secret understandings may be necessary. It may be profitable to make changes in plans and surroundings. In all contracts be prudent; act on principle rather than expediency.

A child born on this day will be shrewd and clever but disposed to take long chances or attain its ends in the easiest way. Gambling instincts may prove detrimental to its success.

WORLD TOUR FOR HITLER

HITLER needs a vacation. Not just a weekend at his eagle's nest in the Bavarian Alps. Not a trip to Italy or to any of the southeastern European countries.

Hitler never has got around much and knows nothing of how people live and what they really think outside of his own group and country. He should have real travel. A world cruise would be fine, with a long enough stop-over in the United States really to see this varied land and to observe its varied people, including the thousands of good American citizens of German stock.

He should have hand-picked hosts on such a world tour, not Nazi sympathizers or German-haters, but people who can see Der Fuehrer in historical perspective and who are awake to the great possibilities of human progress. Architect Frank Lloyd Wright could probably change Hitler's usual train of thought effectively. Oswald Garrison Villard, Paul Kellogg of The Survey, Dr. Alexis Carrel, Senator Norris, Henry Ford and President Roosevelt are others who could "wise him up" to what's going on in the world beyond the Nazi-Fascist-Communist areas.

The idea grows on one. But it's probably one of those things that nothing can be done about.

SWIMS FOR SUICIDES

PEOPLE who attempt suicide are almost glad to be saved. That is the word of Captain Nels Palmer of Ludington, Mich., who has saved so many lives while in the Great Lakes Coast Guard service that he no longer remembers how many they are. In 34 years in the Coast Guard this total mounts up.

"It seems most of them are just temporarily unbalanced when they decide to end it all and the water is great medicine for restoring balance."

There is healing in cold water, for more ills than many imagine. If you are depressed to the busting joint, go in swimming if you can. If you can't, try a cold bath in tub or shower. Even a mere cool sponge-off has been known to change the look of the universe.

There used to be a saying that no woman ever committed suicide on her way back from buying a new hat. And any man coming back with his hair wet and his head cool from a good, refreshing swim will be willing to give the good old earth one more try.

While the astronomers are looking at Mars, we'd like to know if there's any way of going there till this earthly rumpus blows over.

Teddy, the famous toad now engaged in hopping from California to New York, seems to have as sensible a purpose in life as a lot of human record-breakers who get their names in the papers.

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE . . . Hour by Hour

Pages From the Diary of an Antiquated Reporter:

Up and about the village at the usual hour, general discussion dealing with the fatal automobile accident of the night before and the knifing of a local policeman. Little interest in the European or Oriental situations and everyone breathing a little easier now that congress has adjourned. It is strange to compare comments of the businessmen regarding his congressional when he is a candidate and when he is an actual working member of congress.

Waved good-bye to Guy Pettit, wife and son as they took off with their trailer on a two weeks vacation trip into Northern Michigan and possibly Canada. Mrs. Pettit never has caught a fish, but the odds are a thousand to one that she will catch plenty on this jaunt. One just can not help catching fish up there. Mack and Lady Noggle, who recently returned from their first vacation in the Northland, are completely sold on the territory and will return next year. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wittich leave Friday on their annual trip into Canada. Troy White, I understand, is back, but I have not seen him and have no report on his jaunt into the North Bay territory.

Heard another chapter of the never-ending argument between Barristers Max Seyfert and Earl Smith over the killing of a cock pheasant one hunting season several years ago. Max says he was crossing a big field, saw a hunter in the distance, heard three shots in rapid succession and that a big bird came sailing directly at him. Max fired once, according to his story, and the pheasant fell dead at his feet. Earl insists that the bird was mortally wounded by his three shots and that Max missed him. However, the proof of the pudding is supposed to be in the eating and Max ate the pheasant.

ANNENBERG CASE WATCHED

CHICAGO—For more than two months now a steady stream of witnesses—150 in all—has been filing in before two Chicago federal grand juries in the case of Moses Annenberg, big-shot Philadelphia publisher and biggest distributor of racing information the world has known.

Outside Chicago, the country has scarcely heard of this investigation, yet it reaches down into the very roots of Democratic politics, and it touches the sporting nerves of perhaps one-fourth of the American people.

For the probe of Moe Annenberg's bizarre career has gone into every phase of the racetrack gambling racket. How much the government will prove remains to be seen, but before the final Annenberg proceedings are over the entire story of America's huge racing industry will be laid before the public.

The general public will not be so much interested in the political ramifications of the Annenberg case, but Republican politicians will. For the trail of Annenberg's activities in Chicago weaves in and out the warp and woof of the Kelly-Nash machine, which, like Pendergast in Kansas City, Tammany in New York and the Long-Maestri machine in New Orleans, voted enthusiastically for Roosevelt and expected immunity in return.

It is Mayor Kelly of Chicago who always swings the huge Chicago vote into the Democratic column to make up for Republican leads in down-state Illinois. And it is Mayor Kelly who enthusiastically roots for Roosevelt for a third term.

But now the man whom Kelly would re-elect apparently is bent upon pulling the machine which helped elect him in '32 and '36 down upon His Honor's ears, as is being done in other great Democratic cities. That, however, is a story in itself.

TELEPHONE EMPIRE

To return to Annenberg, the trail goes back approximately four years when the Treasury first began poking a nose into his income tax. Annenberg paid a tremendous income tax, but also he was one of the wealthiest men in the country. In addition to his newspapers and magazines, he operates the Nationwide News Service Teleflash system which carry racing results from every track in the country.

This is a monopoly. No other agency supplies this news, and Annenberg has set up a private telephone and telegraph empire that few people knew anything about. Taxes on telephone calls are merely one item in the huge tax bill the Government is presenting Annenberg.

Although Internal Revenue agents pried into Annenberg's income tax as early as four years ago, they couldn't get anything tangible until about two years ago when they ran across his private code.

This was a windfall. For through this code they were able to trace every bookie in the country with whom Annenberg did business.

66 REVENUE AGENTS

At this point, Secretary Morgenthau himself reviewed the case and assigned 50 revenue agents and 16 special agents to do nothing except dig up evidence for the Annenberg suit.

DIET AND HEALTH

Pollens Usher in Hay Fever Week

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

MY COUSIN Alice who was sitting with me on the porch suddenly said, "Do you know what next week is?" "National Milk Week," I hazarded. "No," "National Glue Week—become glue conscious," I guessed again.

"No," she said decisively, "National Hay Fever Week, and I am it."

Invisible Cloud of Pollen

So it is, so it is! On or about August 15 the annual escapement of the pollen from the dear little ragweeds occurs. That cloud of pollen, invisible except in a bright ray of sunshine, will spread over the country from lower Canada to the borders of Texas, from the Atlantic Ocean to the Rocky Mountains. California and the Pacific Coast will not be affected by the ragweed pollination, nor the mountain climates in general. And in the northern parts of Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota, the hay-feverite will be comfortable most of the time—except when the wind is from the south.

Wherever that cloud of pollen spreads its airy pall, a certain number of our respectable, right-minded, lovable friends will be made acutely uncomfortable, for no fault of their own, while you and I, who are probably far more deserving of punishment than they, will be serenely indifferent to the pollen invasion, even though we may snuff just as many pounds of pollen into our nostrils as they.

Hay Fever Problems

My cousin Alice thinks it's very unjust and, being an intellectual revolver against hay fever, wants to know certain things. I suppose all hay-feverite Cousin-Alices want to know the same thing.

First: Why—why should it be me? What is the matter inside me that makes me begin to sneeze and weep August 15, when the rest of you are so calm?

Second: Is there anything I can do to change it? How can I make myself like the rest of you, for whom there is no hay fever season?

Third: How many of us hay-feverites are there?

Fourth: Is there any way to get relief during the season?

These are important questions and not easy to answer entirely satisfactorily. The third is the easiest. Estimates vary, but it can be said fairly accurately that about one out of every fifteen people in the hay fever area of North America will be uncomfortable next week.

Belongs in Allergy Group

Hay fever belongs to the group of diseases known as allergy. A simpler word is idiosyncrasy. Certain people are sensitive to the pollens of certain plants, and when they breathe these pollens they have a swelling and stuffiness of the nose and a swelling of the lining of the bronchial tubes, causing asthma. When the pollens strike the conjunctiva of the eye, they have redness and weeping. And they feed all over. And that is hay fever.

What is the cause of it? Why are some people affected by the pollens and not others? It must be some peculiar chemistry in the blood. But what this is, I am afraid, the specialists on the subject have by no means made clear.

I have before me an enormous tome of over a thousand pages. It is the latest treatise on allergy. And after reading the chapters on the nature of the condition, I am as much confused as ever. We know some practical facts and those I will try to point out in articles that are to follow.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

V. S. J.: "What is the correct meaning of the word 'adhesions'? What do they come from, and would they give a patient discomfort all of the time? I had this trouble before my operation, which was for a cyst on my left ovary. Now I still feel the same sticking sensation in my side."

Answer—Adhesions are abnormal strands of tissue which follow inflammation or operation and bind two body surfaces together. For instance, if you burned the skin on the inside of the fingers, and this burned area healed so that the two fingers were bound together by scar tissue, this would be an adhesion. Usually adhesions refer to abdominal adhesions. The delicate surface of the peritoneum is peculiarly adapted to forming bands of adhesions after any abdominal operation or inflammation, such as appendicitis, within the abdomen. Formerly surgeons believed that these adhesions caused many symptoms. Nowadays accomplished surgeons are inclined to feel they do no harm, probably do not cause the symptoms once ascribed to them, and had best be left alone.

Phantom Ranch

WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

by OREN ARNOLD

LORENA HAMILTON has come to Arizona to visit her uncle GEORGE BRAZEE, owner of Phantom Ranch, whose leading cowboys are SHOT ROGERS and JERRY DALE. JERRY DALE, college-bred newcomer, who found her after three Mexicans had tried to kidnap her.

YESTERDAY: Jerry, having taken a fancy to Lorena, suddenly kisses her as they are talking in the pasture.

CHAPTER TEN

SHOT ROGERS, tall and rather slender, but full of masculine grace, walked from Mrs. Brazee's kitchen door with his great felt hat still held in one hand, and a lazy old chuckawalla dangling from the other. The lizard wriggled once, tentatively.

"Hold on, old-timer," Shot called out as he might have spoken to his horse. "No harm's coming. You got to show off a little is all."

Shot's spurs sang their clink-clink rhythm as he walked. He glanced back once at his horse waiting obediently near the front porch, reins down. But he was going to speak to a girl, and had his hands full; he'd just walk on. He put the chuckawalla against his body to keep it soothed.

The land rise there wasn't much, but it did shield the bull pastures from view. Shot was clinking up his side of the slope when Lorena herself appeared suddenly on the crest, some hundred feet away. She was alone and running.

"Hello! A bull after you?" Shot demanded. Part of his alarm was genuine.

She stopped running. "Oh! Oh, not Hello, Mr. Rogers!"

Shot stared hard at her. Her face was pale, strained. He thought her beautiful in white. He was impressed by her brown curls.

"I brought you something—wait! Don't come too close, yet. I don't want to scare you none, ma'am. Are you—you feel all right? I mean—well, you had a experience last night, and you'd ought to feel all tickered, Miss Lorena."

"No, it isn't that. I—I feel fine now. I slept all afternoon. I'm all right. What did you bring me?" She managed a smile, and so he removed the hand that had concealed his gift against his body. But he still was carefully standing some six or eight feet away from her.

"He laughed happily, hoarsely. 'Don't be afraid, ma'am. He's as harmless as a cat. More so. A cat'll scratch.'"

"Gee glory, Mr. Rogers!" She edged closer to the thing on his arm.

"It's a chuckawalla; a big rock lizard common out here. He never does no—never does any harm. You want him? For a pet?"

Lorena looked up at Shot's face then. He wasn't teasing, she saw. He was really proffering a gift, as a school boy might.

She stepped forward and held out her hand, taking the beast easily back of the front legs and being careful not to hurt it. It quivered some in the transfer, but she supported it's body and cuddled it with care.

"Well, I'll be switched! Well, I'll be!" stammered Shot, proudly beaming. "You're not a bit afraid!"

"Did you expect me to be?"

"Why—why—why, no'm! But—well, you're a ducky girl, and this critter is not exactly dandy, and—"

"He's hideous, but he's cute," she said, smiling easier now. "And you told me he was harmless."

"Your color's come back. Were you running from a bull, sure 'nough?"

Her lips suddenly set angrily. "Why—yes, I think I was, Mr. Rogers!" She snapped it at him.

"Oh! I beg your pardon, ma'am. I didn't mean to stick my neck—"

"It's all right. It's—it's nothing. Really, I'm ever so glad to see you."

Lorena managed a smile.

and the wild monster you brought me!"

Jerry Dale came walking over the rise from the bull pastures then, walked rather slowly and wearing a grin as if in high amusement. Rogers glanced at him, then back at the girl. She centered her attention on petting and stroking the chuckawalla's rough old hide. Rogers looked quizzically at Jerry as he came up to them.

"So you can't take it, eh?" said Jerry, ignoring Shot.

"Howdy," said Shot, agreeably. "I was just showing Miss Lorena a chuckawalla. She never saw one before."

"Nuts," said Jerry. "Listen, Lorena, you don't want to fly off the handle like that. You and I are going to get along, kid! Everything's Jake. No hard feelings." He looked up at Shot Rogers then, for the first time. "Lorena and I were out for a walk together, Rogers. See?"

"Yes! Yes, come on!" said Lorena, hastily. "Let me carry the zoo, Mr. Rogers, and we'll walk a bit before supper." She exhaled as if in sudden relief. Her left arm held the lizard, and with her right she reached out to take Shot Rogers's elbow, steering him with them slowly down the hill, pretending deep interest in the lizard.

Shot, badly confused, stalked beside her. He looked over her head at the other young man, but Jerry was scowling at Lorena and at the lizard she held. Shot didn't understand it all. He just sensed that Lorena wanted to stick with him; the determined pressure of her hand on his arm indicated that. The cowboy swallowed hard.

"It—uh—it's right pleasant weather herabouts," he ventured, profoundly. "What I mean, ma'am, it's good for the stock and all, and it don't do—it doesn't do people any harm to have a cool altitude like this to work in. Gets awful hot down around Blanco and toward Tucson in summer."

"Listen, Lorena," Jerry put in, "you've got—"

But she quickly interrupted. "We've got to get back toward the house for supper. Aunt Sally wouldn't want us to be late. She and Concha were baking some cakes for you boys. All of you men. The—the men Uncle George hired, they'll be here for supper, too, I imagine?" She ended on a questioning note.

"Listen," Jerry began again, "I—"

"Yes, ma'am," Shot picked up the conversation at once, steering them back toward the porch. "We'll all be here tonight. We got to do some planning. And—to tell you the truth, Miss Lorena, we all sort of wanted to celebrate your coming. We were talking about it this afternoon."

"That's sweet! Especially after—"

"Nuts! Listen, Lorena, I'm not—"

Jerry scowled. "Not much happens to break up the day-in-and-day-out work on a ranch, ma'am, and when a guest like you comes from the east, why, it's worth a dance!" Shot was doing better now, he felt. Lorena's arm pressure had relaxed.

"Dance! Tonight?" she looked up at Shot.

"Well, no. Matter of fact, we figured you'd be too wore out, after the trouble with Luis Escobar's Mexicans. But if you feel all right by, say Saturday—"

"Wonderful, Mr. Rogers! Where will we have it?"

"Why, right here, George—Mr. Brazee—says. And uh—whilst I'm on that subject—well, ma'am, I was bringing that chuckawalla—I knew it wouldn't be worth keeping as a pet, so you can just put him down to go on back in the rocks and be happy, and—"

Shot was floundering again. So obviously so that both Lorena and Jerry looked directly at him.

"Yes?" she prompted, curiously. Shot swallowed. He was smart enough to know that an opportunity has to be grabbed, or it may vanish. But he had hoped for some more privacy with her. He and the other cowboy had framed up the dance a few minutes ago and he had set out at once to tell Lorena, also to make his own "arrangements" if possible. He had leaned on it as an excuse for opening a conversation and working circuitously to his real topic.

He knew if he let Lorena get back to the ranch house some of the other men would be there and would surely ask her what he meant to ask of her.

Lorena brightened instantly, even as she bit her lip in amusement. "Phooey!" growled Jerry. "If there's a dance, it'll be right in her house. She won't need it."

"Wonderful!" exclaimed Lorena, a peculiar triumph in her voice. "A real ranch dance! Of course you may be my escort, Mr. Rogers!"

Today's Horoscope

The year just starting for today's birthday children will be fairly fortunate. See to it, however, that you do not quarrel with elders and safeguard your health. Gambling tendencies should be checked in the child born on this date. He or she will be materialistic and inclined to take chances—almost always losing.

One-Minute Test Answers

1. Verrazano first discovered it, but it was first explored by Henry Hudson, for whom it is named.
2. A rain gauge.
3. At Blennerhassett Harmon Blennerhassett and Aaron Burr planned their ill-fated expedition to conquer the southwest.

STARS SAY—

For Tuesday, August 8, UNEXPECTED opportunities for making important connections with large corporations, political, diplomatic or fraternal organizations are presaged from the predominant planetary configurations. This may call for rather sudden changes in plans and environs, and may work at cross-purposes with elders or others in authority. Compromise or finesse are quite likely to overcome opposition. Sign all writings cautiously.

Those whose birthday it is are facing a year of moderate opportunity for advancement or success, especially in connection with large corporations or political or diplomatic circles where strategem or secret understandings may be necessary. It may be profitable to make changes in plans and surroundings. In all contracts be prudent; act on principle rather than expediency.

A child born on this day will be shrewd and clever but disposed to take long chances or attain its ends in the easiest way. Gambling instincts may prove detrimental to its success.

WARNING

Nature does produce some things that are unkind to man—but she usually advertises their poisonous presence. For instance, the shiny three-fingered leaves of poison ivy shout "Danger: Keep Out" to any one familiar with the Great Outdoors.

The advertising which men do to their fellow men is of a different sort. We advertise the good things, and do not mention those we've found not good.

There's a reason for that. Merchants know that if they call attention to inferior merchandise, their reputation and consequently their business will suffer.

That is why you can safely rely on advertised products. Make a habit of reading the advertisements—and see how much time, money and shopping grief you save yourself!

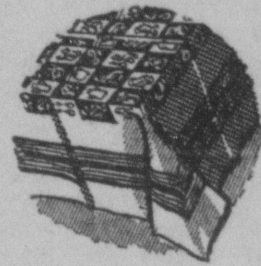

The foliage of this group is slender and graceful. As shown in today's Garden-Graph, the beardless irises may be planted or transplanted in either April or August. The crown should be placed about two inches below the surface of the soil. The first Winter they should be mulched after the ground freezes. As these irises are not divided for many years after planting they require a soil rich in humus and plant food. Unlike the bearded type, the beardless irises will not do well in a soil containing a great deal of lime. They seem to prefer an acid soil.

Wallace-Glitt Athletes Rally in Final Inning

KANSAS CITY ON TOP, BUT LEAD IN A. A. IS CUT

ST. PAUL, Aug. 8.—Despite a 5 to 3 victory over St. Paul, Kansas City today saw its American Association lead shaved to a game and a half as Minneapolis, in second place clouted Milwaukee twice.

Vince DiMaggio's 39th home run aided the Blues in submerging the Saints and a four run rally in the third inning along with Tommy Reis' five hit pitching enabled the league leaders to come out on top.

With the veteran Elton "Chief" Hogsett twirling five hit ball, Minneapolis took a 4 to 1 decision over Milwaukee in the first fray, a seven-inning twilight affair, and than bunched 11 hits in the nightcap to win, 8 to 7.

The Millers trailed 6 to 3 in the final encounter and then went behind 7 to 4 before staging a three run spree in the seventh which knotted the count. Buck Fausett singled home Otto Denning with the decisive marker in the eighth. Bill Butland received credit for the victory.

Home after a three week road trip, Louisville celebrated with a 2 to 1 victory over the last place Toledo Mud Hens and Indianapolis clouted Columbus' Nate Andrews for 11 hits and a 6 to 4 victory.

The bespectacled American was jeered when he swung wide on the last lap to pass two other runners. He finished fourth, Dennis Pell of Britain winning in 4:15.2.

"I was thrown wide when I tried to pass," Rideout said. "I heard them booing, but I can't understand why."

"When I got on the last lap, I tightened up—something that never happened to me before."

Competing with 15 other nations, America easily won the meet with 54 points. Britain was second with 41 and Germany third with 25.

Bill Watson alone scored 13 points for America, breaking the British shut-out record with 52 feet, 8 inches. Clyde Jeffrey won both the 100 and 200-yard dashes. Roy Cohan of Indiana set a new British record of 52.7 seconds in the 440-yard hurdles.

So, briefly, the Reds are about to face the test that will determine whether they are to do the accordion act and fold with a moan and a wheeze or shake off their slump and begin quickly to make up the ground lost in the last week when they won only two out of six. They still figure to come through, all right, but it's going to get tougher before it gets any easier.

Setups About Ended
For one thing, the Reds have won 29 of 34 games with the Boston Bees and Philadelphia Phillies, seventh and eighth, respectively, in the standings and doomed to stay there, and the Reds have only 10 more games with those setups while the Cards have 16 and the Cubs 18. That may not be vitally important, however, for the point seems to be that, until they slumped, the Reds figured to beat the ears off all comers. They'll get going again, too, with 500 ball still just about all that is necessary from here on out to bring them home in front.

The order of their appearances against the tough western clubs beginning today will be five games at Chicago, three at St. Louis and seven at home, their foes to be the Pittsburgh Pirates and Chicago Cubs twice each and the St. Louis Cardinals three games.

Goody To Play
Their hopes were bolstered somewhat today by announcement that Outfielder Ival Goodman probably will take his place in the lineup against the Cubs, marking his start since his shoulder was crated up following injury in the all-star game a month ago. Mr. Goodman has been sorely needed.

Recent goings-on in the American league included a New York Yankee slump in a home stay during which they won only seven out of 12, but the nature of things in that circuit are such that over that period the Yanks actually gained ground on the second place Boston Red Sox and now lead by eight games.

Yesterday was an open day for both leagues except for two night games in which the Brooklyn Dodgers nosed out the Bees 7 to 6 in ten innings at Ebbets field while the Cleveland Indians scored a 6 to 5 victory over the St. Louis Browns, at Cleveland.

PITT STAR SIGNS WITH CHICAGO CARDINAL CREW
CHICAGO, Aug. 8—Marshall Goldberg, former All-American back with the University of Pittsburgh, was off to training camp today with his new teammates, the Chicago Cardinals.

Goldberg signed with the pro eleven yesterday. Terms of his one-year contract were not disclosed, but it was reported he would be paid between $10,000 and $12,000 for the season, with a bonus clause that would double that figure if he proves as sensational in pro games as he did with the Panthers.

INTENT TO KILL CHARGE FILED AGAINST BUSKIRK IN MERRIMAN STABBING

SCIOTO STREET MAN HELD FOR GRAND JURORS

Bond of $3,000 Provided In Mayor W. B. Cady's Court

BOWSER PAYS $50, COSTS

Ward Cross, Named In Drunk Driving Complaint, Bound Over Under $200

Charles Buskirk, 70, of S. Scioto street, waived examination before Mayor W. B. Cady, Monday, on a charge of stabbing with intent to kill and was bound to the grand jury under $3,000 bond, which he provided.

The charge against Buskirk resulted from the stabbing Sunday of Elmer Merriman, 39, of 226 Town street, extra police officer. Merriman suffered a wound in the left chest in an altercation that developed when he and Vern Pontius, also an extra patrolman, took four children who had been riding with a man arrested for driving when intoxicated to the Buskirk home.

John H. Bowser, 354 E. Union street, paid a fine of $50 and costs of $8.70 on a charge on interfering with Mr. Merriman at the Buskirk home. He pleaded guilty. They had posted bonds to appear Monday night for hearings but reported in court Monday afternoon, the mayor said.

Ward Cross, 37, of Circleville Route 2, arrested for operating a motor vehicle when intoxicated on W. Mound street, Saturday night, waived examination before Mayor Cady and was bound to the grand jury under $200 bond. He furnished bond.

RELIEF OFFICE UNCERTAIN OF NUMBER TO CUT

No figure is available to date on the number of W.P.A. employees who will be dismissed in Pickaway county under the 18-month ruling. D. H. Marcy, county relief director, announced Monday that dismissal of all project workers except war veterans, who have been employed continuously for 18 months will be resumed immediately on instruction from Washington.

Dr. Carl Watson, Ohio W.P.A. administrator, said there were 20,417 such dismissals in Ohio in July. Dr. Watson estimated that 25,000 more workers would be dismissed during August and 15,000 in September.

The quota set for Ohio for Sept. 1 is 141,450. At present there are 158,577 W.P.A. workers in this state. To keep the rolls up to the 141,450 figure, W.P.A. will make new assignments for the waiting list of 81,232 persons.

In the Columbus district the present load is 15,960. The Sept. 1 quota is 14,800. Mr. Marcy said figures have not been compiled in the Columbus office on the dismissals for Pickaway county.

WALKER RITES SET

Park Project Delayed To Aid Home Builders

By S. D. FRIDLEY Phone, Ashville 79

In attendance at the town council meeting Monday evening was the whole official village family with the exception of Councilman Dailey. Those in attendance were Mayor Fraunfelder, Clerk Dick Willis, Treasurer Ben Morrison, Village Solicitor Emmitt Crist, Marshal Bob Walden with Deputy Cecil Scott and Councilmen A. W. Graham, C. C. Cloud, Clyde Hoover, Arthur Petty, Frank Conrad. The erection of a shelter house at the park is temporarily postponed because of improvements which must be made for the accommodation of the East Lawn addition people erecting new homes there. These improvements include streets, sidewalks and surface water drainage, village water and sanitary sewers being already there. An effort is being made through authorities in charge, to secure a W.P.A. grant to lessen the cost of these improvements. An adjourned session will be held this Friday, the 11th, for the completion of the W.P.A. grant application.

Ashville—Mondell, Florence and Mary Peters arrived here at the home of Ben and Winnie Morrison Monday afternoon coming by auto from their home town of Lac-cine, La., a distance of some 1,100 miles. Dad and Mom, whom they left at home to see after things, are Vernon and Mrs. Peters. This Peters family has been in the South for several years and operate a large rice and cattle ranch with a few producing oil.

U. B. Church to Build Campground Dormitory

Sunday night brought to a close at the Stoutsville United Brethren campground what many considered the best campmeeting ever held there.

A program of expansion is already under way for next year. Saturday the grounds were re-leased to the United Brethren Church for twenty years. Work is to be started immediately after conference on a dormitory back of the cottages at the rear of the tabernacle. This structure will have twenty rooms upstairs and two large rooms on the ground floor, and is estimated to cost $3,000. Approximately $2,000 in cash and pledges has already been subscribed for the purpose.

New officers elected for the camp next year are the Rev. H. O. Davis, of Jacksonville, president, and the Rev. T. C. Gregory, of Enterprise, secretary. The Rev. Spurgeon Metzler, of Pickaway Charge, was re-elected as vice president.

The executive committee at its last meeting unanimously voted to reemploy the same evangelistic fourth engagement in six weeks at the Treasure Island Fair for the "College of Musical Knowledge" maestro.

Nat Labofsky, star trombonist with Larry Clinton's band, is leaving to join Paul Whiteman.

U. B. Church to Build Campground Dormitory

Sunday night brought to a close at the Stoutsville United Brethren campground what many considered the best campmeeting ever held there.

A program of expansion is already under way for next year. Saturday the grounds were re-leased to the United Brethren Church for twenty years. Work is to be started immediately after conference on a dormitory back of the cottages at the rear of the tabernacle. This structure will have twenty rooms upstairs and two large rooms on the ground floor, and is estimated to cost $3,000. Approximately $2,000 in cash and pledges has already been subscribed for the purpose.

New officers elected for the camp next year are the Rev. H. O. Davis, of Jacksonville, president, and the Rev. T. C. Gregory, of Enterprise, secretary. The Rev. Spurgeon Metzler, of Pickaway Charge, was re-elected as vice president.

The executive committee at its last meeting unanimously voted to reemploy the same evangelistic
